TONG CHASE. A daring attempt of a prisoner to escape from custody by jumping off a train at full speed was made on the Pennsylvania road last Thursday night. The prisoner was Bernard Reinach, for swyeral years collector for the Baner & Betz Brewing Company, who disappeared three weeks ago with $1,000 of the company's funds. After being traced to Chicago by one of Pinkerton's men, Reinach was arrested while making negotiations to open a liquor store in that city. He started for New-York, in company with the detective, on Wednesday night, April 4. A fast train, a dark night and a contrite prisoner are influences that no detective can resist. After travelling twenty - seven hours with his captor, Reinach expressed a desire to go to the dressing-room. The detective's vigitance had been lulled by the wanning manner of his charge. It was 9 o'clock in the evening and the train had just left Mount Union, a station on the Pennsylvania Railroad, and was running at full speed. The night was very dark, and it was raining. In the closet there was no light. The decective stood at the door of the closet. Reeping it partially open, watching out of the dress on the platform to see that no attempt was unde by Reinach to get through the closet window overlooking the platform. In ddition to this window overlooking the platform to see that no attempt was unde by Reinach to get through the closet window overlooking the platform, as a trate of speed of from thirty to thirty-five miles an hour.

The detective had been watching closely the window overlooking the platform, shading his eyes so as to get a close view. Suddenly, on turning to the closer, he saw Remach disappearing through the side window. The train was immediately stopped and the detective, eyetting off, found himself in the vicinity of McVeytown. A search was imade and the place where Reinach had jumped of was found, but no trace of the prisoner could be seen. The might was so dork that it was immediately stopped and the detective, having passed three nights and two days without slee

The wind was then blowing a gale.

"At daybreak we sighted the brig to leeward. A terrific gale was blowing and the sea was ranning high. It was impossible, therefore, to do anything then. So we lay-to under short canvas to await the lulling of the storm. On the 15th the weather moderated, but the brig was no longer to be seen. We looked for her for some time, but without avail. Whether she had gone down or not I cannot say."

DRUNK, AND IN THE HANDS OF THIEVES. DRUNK, AND IN THE HANDS OF THIEVES.

Officer Burke, while on duty in Division-st. about 10 o'clock on Friday night, saw two thieves occupied in searching the pockets of a man who was askep on the sidewalk. The thieves made an offort to get away, but the officer arrested Charles Johnson. Johnson dropped a silver watch that he had taken from the sleeping man. At the station house the man who had been robbed said that his name was James M. Freeman, of Ravenswood, L. I. His coat and hat had been stolen, and he had only 10 cents in his possession.

was James M. Freeman, of Acversion 1. To contain his possession.

When Johnson was arraigned before Justice Gardner, at the Essex Market Police Court, vesterday, Freeman was still without his coat. The latter stated that he was ex-president of the Long Island City Street Car Company, and that he had an account at the Park Bank. He added that the silver watch had been given to him by a jeweller with whom his gold watch had been left for repairs. He admitted that he had been left for repairs. He admitted that he had been indulging in liquor too freely on Friday. On the testimony of the officer. Johnson was committed for trial in default of $1.000 bail. Freeman was fined $10 for intoxication. He entreated the Justice to let him go, as he had an important case to attend to yesterday before Judge Armstrong, in Queens County. He was paroled on his promise to return to court with his fine on Monday.

MISS MOORE GETS BACK HER MALAY BOY.

Jacob Allen was brought yesterday before Justice Barrett, in the Supreme Court, Chambers, on a writ of habeas corpus. Allen is a Malay boy of about fourteen years. The writ was sued out by Miss Julia F. Moore, with whom the boy has lived for some time. About three years ago, he was a resident of Georgetown, British Guiana, where the officers of an asylum indentured him to Mrs. James Donnelly, who brought him to New-York. She afterward turned the boy over to the care of the wife of the Rev. S. B. Moore, of Yonkers, who put him in the custody of Miss Moore, Mrs. Donnelly made a complaint before Police Justice Duffy to the effect that Jacob was unlawfully detained by Miss Moore, and he sent the boy to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelry to Children pending the settlement of the proceedings before him.

Miss Moore then obtained a writ of habeas corpus. Mr. Leeds, for Miss Moore, asked the Court to place the boy in his client's custody. He said that Justice Duffy had acted without jurisdiction in the matter. No objection to the application was made in behalf of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, and Justice Barrett made an order by which Miss Moore regained the custody of Jacob, and by which it is said that Justice Duffy had no jurisdiction to do as he had done. MONOPOLY IN THE CHINESE COLONY.

Chinese capitalists have recently bought up several of the most desirable pieces of real estate in Mott-st., with a view of monopolizing the trade in Chircatown. Tom Lee secured No. 18 Mott-st, for $15,000; Woo Kee bought No. 8, for $8,500; Knong Hing Long, No. 10, for $8,500; Man Lee & Co., No. 12, for $5,000. The persons occupying these buildings are Chinese grocers, lanndrymen, and cigar-makers. These have all been instructed to vacate their shops before May 1.

A TRIBUNE reporter, who conversed with several Chinese merchants in Mott-st, yesterday, found that there was a feeling of discontent at the sudden harn of affairs. One merchant said that although Chinamen were willing to endure almost anything rather than have a quarrel, yet they were not going to submit to the indignity of having their business taken away from them by a few of their own countrymen who had succeeded in amassing fortunes in this city. It was stated that a private meeting of Chinamen would be held to-day to devise some plan for defeating the object of the capitalists.

common to medium grades do not possess the delicate flavor necessary. In the fertile mountain region about the city of Nagasaki there has recently been found a species of the tea plant which produces one of the finest qualities of black tea, as it has both delicate flavor and strength. The land on which the tea plant now flourishes was formerly overrun with a dense undergrowth of rank vegetation. The inhabitants yearly burn off the accumulation, taking no notice of the specimens of tea plants, which were also consumed, as they formed a part of the undergrowth. A few days ago S. K. Takahashi, the Japanese Consul at New-Vork, received from the Governor of Nagasaki a box containing samples of Japanese teas, new crop, including a sample of this tea. It is called "Hakumo." Tea experts said that it would meet a ready market both here and in Europe.

CO-OPERATIVE APARTMENT-HOUSES.

VIEWS OF HUBERT, PIRSSON & CO.—RESULTS OF THERE YEA S' EXPERIMENTS.

Messrs, Hubert, Pirsson & Co., the architects who first proposed and built co-operative apartment-houses in this city, have written a long letter to The TRIBUNG in answer to an editorial on the subject in last Sunday's issue. The letter replies first to the assection that the yearly expenditure on co-operative bouses is several times as great as was anticipated. The time during which the experiment has been tried, the writers say, is too short to determine this question. "The estimates originally made," they continue, "were based on the actual expenditure on other apartment-houses and prepared with much care by the associate members. The probability is that when the thing settles down into proper working order, these estimates will prove nearly correct. In the meantime, we are informed by actual occupants that they are perfectly well satisfied with the practical working of their establishments, and the only two persons who have given a public account of their experience as club members (one in Harper's Monably and one in the Real Estate Record) report a large saving in favor of co-operative houses."

At the same time, the writers "freely admit that in many cases co-operative apartment-houses have cost far more than had first been estimated." This, however, they ascribe to the carelessness and extravagance of the owners that would be "quite as likely to show themselves in houses built upon any other plan." In other cases the extra expanditure has been caused by judicious changes in the plans, as where ordinary buildings have been changed into size-proof ones.

The writers also contend that it is not entirely an unfortunate thing that co-operative apartment-houses have proved too expensive, except for the very rich. The whole matter is as yet an experiment, they say, and it is botter that the experiment should be made with the money of the rich rather than with the savings of the servent or in the fact, that the p THREE YEA S' EXPERIMENTS.

DISCOVERY OF A LOST HEIR.

DISCOVERY OF A LOST HEIR.

Twenty-eight years ago John Brady, a young man living in Newark, enlated in the army and serving his time out bought a farm near Portland. Ore, where his wife joined him. He was soon afterward murdered and robbed on the Columbia River by an Italian, and six months afterward his wife died, leaving an infant boy who was taken care of by strangers. For years no clew could be obtained as to the home of the child. Meanwhile, Brady's father died in Newark leaving some property which descended to the missing child. It was well taken care of by Bryan Brady and his son, relatives of the deceased Brady.

One day recently a tall, muscular young man called upon Bryan Brady at his house in Columbiast, Newark, and announced that he was the missing heir. He was well dressed and apparently well edincated. He said that he had not known of the murder of his father and only learned of his parentage by accident. After his mother's death he was adopted by a man whose name was also Bryan Brady, and was alterward sent to a Roman Catholic Orphan Asylum. His foster father was afterward killed. Then a man named Collins took him to his house, near Dayton, twenty-seven miles from Portland, and adopted him, senoing him to a select school at Vancouvers, where he remained five years. He then began to study law. In a lawsuit in Portland, at which he was present, it came out that $200 had been left for George Andrew Brady, son of John Brady, and that the money had never been pard over because the son had not been found.

Various circumstances led Brady to a knowledge of the existence of his kinspeople in Newark, and of the property then held in his name, and he made the journey to Newark by advice of his irrends. Bryan Brady caused inquiries to be made in the West and these established the truth of the stranger's statements. The property which was handed over to him consisted of $1,000 deposited in the Newark Savings Institution, and a house worth about $2,000.

The Truth of Certain Assertions to be Verified Under Forfeiture of the Above Amount.

"I don't believe a word of it," is an expression frequently heard in this age of distrust; and, in too many cases, it is to be feared this distrust is well founded. Scepties are the products of deceit, and the American people of the present day have been so often eccived that they require absolute proof before accepting anything final. It is fortunate there are doubtersthey make fraud less possible. But it is none the less absurd to distrust all because some things are deceptive. True merit is all the more worthy because of so much that is valueless and spurious.

For several years the public prints have been filled whose word should be above suspicion have been fined ture. The written utterances of thousands of people whose word should be above suspicion have been spread before the public, but doubters seem to have been as aceptical as ever. In order to meet these doubts the following card has just been given to the public:

To Whom it May Concern.

This house has, for the past three years, published a number of statements of cures so remarkable in their nature as to awaken great doubts as to their genuineness in the minds of many who have read them. These expressions of distrust have come to our ears in many ways and we have been powerless to do other than reiterate the statements already made. In order, however, to forever set at rest all questions, doubts or unbeliefs, we make the following offer: To any person or persons who will show to the satisfaction of any impartial referred that any case or cure advertised by ms in the public press as taking place by means of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure was not as represented, or, where a testimonial has been published, that such testimonial was not gennine, we will pay the sum of $5,000. This is an opportunity for any doubter to secure the basis of a small fortune. We are led to make this offer from two considerations: TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

The above offer is certainly a most remarkable one, and is in keping with the extensive way with which this house conducts all its affairs. To raise a man from the final stages of Bright's disease of the kidneys and restore him to apparent health might seem a "most marvellous, but to not only restore that health, but keep it in perfect order for years afterward—that is the test of actual merit. To what extent this has been done by the Safe Cure (which has become so popular that it has many dangerens imitations) can be inferred perhaps from the following statements:

Elder Janus S. Prescott, who is a member of the Shaker community near Cleveland, Ohio, and a near relative of Prescott, the celebrated historian, says:

"I take pleasure in reiterating my former statements in favor of Warner's Safe Cure, which saved me from death by Bright's disease over four years ago, after I had been given up by all the physicians. Too much cannot be said in its praise. My heat h was never better, with the exception of infirmities incident to old age, having just passed my eightieth anniversory. The dectors in Cleveland say I am good for inherty years and some say 100. Strangers do not take me to be over say. I have received and am receiving numerous letters of inquiry from different parts of the United States, concerning the truth of my 'testimonial.' I always answer, he every case, that it was true, every word of it, and much more might have been added without exaggeration, and I unitedirally and unhesitatingly declare to them all that I believe Warner's Safe Cure is the only remety known for the cure of Bright's disease."

Mr. W. E. Sanford, a prominent citizen of Holley, N. Y., Sara: "Three years ago I was masble to be down, and for over a year I had not slept in oed a sincle might. I could not stand up but had to remain in a sitting posture resting upon my hands and feet, my limbs being utterly useless, compelling me to ever per grand like a child. CONSTANT CURES COMMAND CONFIDENCE. ALLCOCK'S POROUS STRENGTHENING PLASTERS - THEIR WORKS PRAISE THEM.

Letter from Senator H. C. Nelson. ALBANY, N. Y., April 4, 1883. On the 27th of February, 1883, I was taken with a violent pain in the region of the kidneys. I ansfered such agony that point in the region of the kinners. I annered such agony diase I could hardly stand up. As soon as possible I applied two ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS, one over each kidner, and laid down. In an hour, to my surprise and delight, the pain had vanished, and I was well. I wore the plasters for a day or two as a precantion, and then removed them. I have been using ALLCOCK's POROUS PLASTERS in my family for the last ten years, and have always found them the quickest and best external remedy for colds, strains, kinks, and rheumatic affections. From my experience I believe they are the best plaster in the world.

IN HOT WATER. "Freserre and not destroy" is a sound motto in medication as in statesmanship, and, during this cold weather, nothing so preserves and sceps in perfect order the foundtions of the body as a teaspoonful of TARRANT'S SELTZEN APERIENT, taken in not water, half an hour before breakfast.

are to be furnished with water-closet drainage by the Durham House Drainage Co., 187 Broadway.

The Durham System of House Drainage has been adopted for the new building for the SCHOOL OF MINES.

COLUMBIA COLLEGE.

The splendid private stable of Wm. Pickhardt, esq., East 75th Street, is now being furnished with drainage on the Durham System.

This Company not only manufactures the materials it uses (except pipes), but it constructs the drainage system complete, with its own workmen and under supervision of its own engineers.

The use of inferior materials and workmanship for house drainage is a serious error of judgment. The adoption of the Durham System insures a saving of LIFE, HEALTH and MONEY; there will be no repairs required in a lifetime.
